履修前提条件					備考
授業の目的	To study the International English often used in formal and working situations. This will include some grammar, as well as vocabulary and conversational phrases typical of non-specialist business situations.
到達目標	In this second semester class, students will extend the range of communicative situations beyond the basics, to expressing intentions, forecasting, giving advice and dealing with various problem scenarios that might be encountered while living or working abroad. In addition, some attention will be given to public speaking and informal speeches.
授業外学修内容・ 授業外学修時間数	Students will be expected to review lessons and prepare for lessons outside the class. The class will focus on listening and speaking exercises, but students can review these exercises, along with the various reading sections of the text. In this way, students should be able to spend more than 15 hours outside of class (about 1 hour per week) in preparation for and reinforcement of the material covered in class.
